LETTER FROM ATLANTIC CITY

Notes of Interest From Great American Seaside Reseort.

(Correspondence of Gazette) With each returning season your correspondent is found enjoying for a time the cool breezes and the health giving surf of this celebrated resort. where all sorts and conditions of mer for the continued existence, and prosare met with, hailing from the great. er part of the known world. People sometimes ask the question, Why do you go to Atlantic City? Well first lantic City is undoubtedly prosperbecause there is no place like it in this or another country; second because as the late Rev. Dr. Clark of Richmond once said, "It is so far as the eye of the visitor can see a very neoral and law abiding city. I have never seen a drunken man on the boardwalk and you can go to church three times on Sunday if you are so minded to keep that day as our ancestors kept it by being present at church whenever it is open, and lastly there are no binding causes asi ito dress or what you may do provided you observe the ordinary rules of proper behavior." We agree with Dr. Clark. Of course, if you are seeking for different methods of creation commonly called 'sport' with characteristics going beyond that to really low and questionable depths, they can be found as we are assured, but these are hidden from the general public gaze, and from the denizens of the Boardwalk in their steady march up and down its well known course. But we have been told that Alexandria has its "dens" which can be found at no great distance from the Saturday night promenade on old King street; and further that they have some qualities common to the greater underworld of Atlantic City. However, we will leave this discussion to those who may know, only we will say that Atlantic City, like other cities large and small, embraces in its population the whole range of humanity in it: best and in it worst forms, with this to the credit of Atlantic City that its outward conditions appear as mora and law abiding as those cities which are conspicious for their high ethical standards; and they are far better than some other cities we are acquain ted with. We speak from a fair knowledge of the outward and visible conditions of this noted resort for a number of years past.

Practically all demoninations of Christians are represented there by good church buildings and good congregations, at least on Sunday. There is a fine Young Men's Christian Association Building and numerous agencies for all forms of Christian and general philanthropic work. Nor must we omit to mention the Jewish places of worship and the benevolent organizations maintained by the ancient people not only here, but in every place where they are found. It is well known that Atlantic City is the Boardwalk and the beach, where on the 8th day of September, 1915 thousands are seen every season on their apparently endless march, or disporting themselves in the waves of the ocean. Everything else in that city dants, the undersigned who were by is accessory, even the great hotels, the terms of the said decree appointto these two fundamental reasons perous growth of that city on the long and narrow lowlying strip of sand known as Absecon Island. And Atous. One has but to look at the fine hotels already built; the last of these being the great costly pile of the Traymore, while the Hotel Rudolph and the Strand are soon to be replaced by larger, more substantial and fire proof buildings, so that an ever increasing number of guests can be accommodated in more favorable, luxurious and safe surroundings. It is also said that the Hotel Shelburne is to be replaced before long by a handsome and fire proof structure. Another public building might with the most hearty approval of the travelling public be wholly rebuilt, and that is the present miserable, ugly and middle nineteenth century production, called the Pennsylvania Railroad Station. We were glad to see 356. some of the Philadelphia papers expressing their opinion about it. It reminds one of the old wooden structure, bearing the name of station for that company imposed in Alexandria for years before the present has come station was built. The one in Ailantic City is a disgrace to the city, and and to that road, noted for its efficiency and its attention elsewhere to the needs of its hosts of passengers. a word to the wise from many quarters is sufficient, and we sincerely hope that the building of a station equal to the reputation of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and worthy of

CLERK OF THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Proposed amendments to the Constitution of Virginia, agreed to at session of General Assembly 1914, and published in pursuance of section 196 of the Constitution and act approved February 3, JOINT RESOLUTION proposing an amendment to section 46. Article IV. of the Constitution.

Resolved by the House of Delegates, the Schate concurring (a majority of the members elected to each house agreeing thereto). That the following amendment to the Constitution of Virginia, be and the same is hereby, proposed and referred to the General Assembly to be chosen at the next general election of members of the House of Delegates for its concurrence, in conformity with the provisions of section one hundred and ninety-six of article fifteen of said Constitution, namely:

Strike out from the Constitution of Virginia, section forty-six of article four, which is in the following words:

Sec. 46. The General Assembly shall meet once in two years, 'on the second Wednesday in January, next succeeding the election of the members of the House of Delegates and not oftener, unless convened in the manner prescribed by this Constitution. No session of the General Assembly, atter the first under this Constitution, shall continue longer than sixty days; but with the concurrence of three-fifths of the members elected to each house, the session may be extended for a period not exceeding thirty days. Except for the first session held under this Constitution, members shall be allowed a salary for not exceeding sixty days at any regular session, and for not exceeding thirty days at any extra session. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn to another place nor for more than three days. A majority of the members elected to each house shall constitute a quorum to de business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and shall have power to compel the attendance of members in such manner and under such penalty as each house may prescribe. •

And insert in lieu thereof the following: Sec. 46. The General Assembly shall meet once in two years, on the second Wednesday in January, next succeeding the election of the members of the House of Delegates, and not oftener, unless convened in the manner prescribed by this Constitution. No session of the General Assembly shall continue longer than ninety days, except that with the concurrence of three-fifths of the members elected to each house, the session may be extended for a period not exceeding thirty days. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn to another place, not for more than three days. A majority of the members elected to each house shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and shall have power to compe, the attendance of members in such manner and under such penalty as each house may prescribe.

JOINT RESOLUTION proposing amendment to section 50 of Article IV of the Constitution of Virginia, and providing for publishing said amendment, and certifying the same to the next General Assembly.

1. Resolved by the House of Delegates, the Senate concurring (a majority of the members elected to each house agreeing thereto), That the following amendment to the Constitution of Virginia, be and the same is hereby, proposed and referred to the General Assembly to be chosen at the next general election of members of the House of Delegates for its concurrence, in conformity with the provisions of section fifty of article four of said Constitution, namely:

Strike out from the Constitution of Virginia, section fifty, article four, which is in the following words:

And only in the manner required in sub-division (d) of this sqution shall an amendment to a bill by one house be concurred in by the other, or a conference report be adopted by either house, or either house discharge a committee from the consideration of a bill and consider the same as if reported; provided, that the printing and reading, or either, required in sub-division (b and c) of this section, may be dispensed with in a bill to codify the laws of the State, and in any case of emergency by a vote of four-fifths of the members voting in each house taken by the yeas and nays, the names of the members voting for and against, entered on the journal; provided further, that no bill which a debt or charge or makes, continues or revives any appropriation of public or trust money or property, or releases, or discharges, or commutes any claim or demand of the State, or which imposes, continues or revives a tax, shall be passed except by the affirmative vote of the majority of all the members elected to each house, the vote to be by the yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against, entered on the journal. Every law imposing, continuing or reviving a tax shall specifically state such tax, and no law shall be construed as so stating such tax, which requires a reference to any other law or any other tax. The presiding officer of each house shall, in the presence of the house over which he presides, sign every bill which has been passed by both houses and duly enrolled. Immediately before this is done, all other business being suspended, the title of the bill shall be publicly, read. The fact of the signing shall be entered on the journal.
